Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-41, drawn to a healing cell apparatus, classified in class 607, subclass 1.
- II. Claims 42-49, drawn to a healing cell apparatus, classified in class 607, subclass50.
- III. Claims 50-57, drawn to a healing cell apparatus, classified in class 607, subclass2.
- IV. Claims 58-83, drawn to a method for healing wounds, classified in class 607, subclass 50.

Inventions IV and I, II, and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different method not requiring healing soft tissues, bone fractures, cancerous tissues, nerve pathways, and other body tissues being treated but by electrically or magnetically stimulating any part of the body for providing a plurality of therapies ranging from stimulating motor muscles, to electrical treatment of pain, to treating mental or emotional disorder.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require a field generator coil, a shielding, a coil enclosure and patient insulation. The subcombination has separate utility such as not having a base with a plurality of cells placed on the base but by having the cells connected to each other in a meshwork or chain-link network.

Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require a cell apparatus for producing current-voltage singals. The subcombination has separate utility such as not having a power supply communicating independently with each of the cells but by pooling each battery of each cell to use as a communal power supply.

Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require the cells to be mounted on a base. The subcombination has separate utility such as not having a shielding separating the control circuits from the coil, a coil enclosure, and a patient insulation but by having only one insulative cover for the entire device.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Meera Narasimhan on April 24, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
